

News Release

---

For Immediate Release: May 22, 2007

Contact: Marc Marquis, Environmental Health Director (509) 886-6483

TESTING SITES EXPANDED FOR FOOD WORKER CARDS

To meet increasing demand and improve access to computer based training for food worker cards, new testing sites are available to the public on a walk-in basis M-F. These new sites include the Peshastin & Lake Chelan Libraries, the Chelan County Fair Offices in Cashmere, and the WSU Extension Office in Waterville. Completed tests with payment can be mailed directly to the Chelan Douglas Health District Office using postage paid, pre-addressed envelopes. These outreach sites will improve local access to this service. The District has also increased the number of computer stations available at their office for food worker testing.

Chelan Douglas Health District greatly appreciates the community support for this outreach effort. We would like to thank our project partners including Dean Marney & Dan Howard, Regional Library Managers, Margaret Viebrock, WSU Faculty, and Marcia Clute, Chelan County Fair Manager. For more information please contact the Environmental Health Division at (509) 886-6450.